FRANK L. FELIX, Proprietor.
REBER MATTHEWS, Editor.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 18

Why do they call it the "political field," anyhow? Because there are always a number of jacks grazing in it?

The Republican Vice Presidential nomination is still stalking around over the country, seeking whom it may devour.

By-the-way, those new macadam streets and street lights for Hartford—what's the reason some movement is not made in this direction?

About the most popular wireless telegraph service is that which furnishes the war news in the offices of some of the daily newspapers.

The Roosevelt administration has cost the people $2,640,000,000, or $883,000,000 more than the last Democratic administration disbursed. How is that for high?

Speaking of a running-mate for Teddy, what's the matter with "Roosevelt and Crum"? The President is very fond of Dr. Crum, and besides, doesn't that sound all right—for Teddy?

Democrats should not forget the county mass conventions which will be held throughout Kentucky, on Saturday, June 4, to select delegates to the State Convention at Louisville, Wednesday, June 8. Let harmony prevail!

At the hour of going to press the latest war news was that Admiral Regret-to-Reportski had received a Japanese torpedo just over his right ear, disabling him for a moment, but creating no serious hindrance to the Russian advances. The Yaller river has been crossed and the contending forces are now pressing on to St. Louis.

It has been decided that the Kentucky Press Association shall meet in Louisville on Monday, June 13, at St. Louis for "Kentucky Day" at the World's Fair, which will be June 15. The Association will go in a body over the "Henderson Route," leaving Louisville at night. There will be a business session held in Louisville before the start is made.

MR. WATKINSON, in a lengthy editorial, says W. R. Hearst is mentally unbalanced and irresponsible—a lunatic of the first water. He compares Hearst to the Humbert of modern times. Of course there are some persons who will disagree with Mr. Watkinson and there are others who will wonder how such an alleged crazy loon could stir up the interest and animadversions of the great mental weights of the country.

It must be a source of gratitude to every Kentuckian that our grand old State is making a creditable showing at the great World's Fair. There is much favorable comment on the various exhibits which embody the splendid resources for which Kentucky is noted. In every building in which Kentucky is represented—in mines and metallurgy, education, forestry, agriculture and horticulture—our State stands in honorable distinction. Our representation at the World's Fair will no doubt result in great good to the State.

HON. JO A. PARKER, who "got his start" in the old Kentucky Progress office in Hartford some dozen or so years ago, was in our city last week and honored us with a call. Jo says he's the best sort of a Democrat on earth—a Populist. He says he's a lawyer now and his visit here was on a hunt for timber land, but he had about a hat full of Hearst buttons in his grip and a bundle of Hearst literature as big as a man's leg. He is now Chairman of the National Populist Committee. Jo says if Hearst is nominated, all right and good, but that if the newspaper editor doesn't get the Democratic nomination, the Populists will sure put out a candidate for President.

We feel quite sure that there is not in the State a faction of Democrats really having the best interests of the party at heart, who desire to arbitrarily set themselves up as the bosses or political mentors of any other faction or contingent. There is entirely too much crimination and recrimination going on just now in Democratic circles. The political bully is too much in evidence. Many leading Democrats are being accused of things which, from the very nature of matters, seem untrue. And there are many things true which should not be. A spirit of tolerance and respect for each other's views and rights would do much to bring about that harmony without which we cannot hope to succeed as a party. Let us have peace.

It is estimated that if the newspaper space that has been devoted to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition were made into a single strip, the width of an average newspaper column, it would extend three times around the world. Newspapers throughout the world have been used in telling the people of the universe what they will see at the St. Louis Fair. In every country of the globe, in every language known to civilization, stories of the exposition have gone forth. As a universal Exposition, the general idea of what is to be found at St. Louis is more clearly understood by the general public than has been the case of any former exposition. The great World's Fair has certainly been well advertised.

ONE of the most deplorable incidents of the game of politics is the personal enemies it creates. Men who are otherwise the best of friends, meet on the political field as deadly enemies—and we use "deadly" in a literal sense. The ethics of honor and the fine discernments of personal prestige are often lost in the one desire for political supremacy. What in the ordinary affairs of life would be considered the height of infamy, is tolerated in politics as one of the lamentable yet necessary demands of the business. Some men think more of their political views than they do of the religion or their close kindred and friendships. Whether this is an outgrowth of the spirit of American freedom or a deplorable evidence of the degeneracy of human discernment is left for the philosopher to determine.

There seems to be quite a difference of opinion among those who claim to be most able to interpret the political views of W. R. Hearst, as to whether the latter is in favor of reaffirming the Kansas City platform. Jo A. Parker, the noted Populist orator, who carries his grip full of Hearst buttons and literature and who assumes to promulgate the political views of Mr. Hearst, said in THE HERALD office one day last week, in answer to a pointed question, that W. R. Hearst is absolutely in favor of the reaffirmation of the Kansas City document. As to Mr. Hearst's endorsement of the 16-to-1 financial clause, he could not say. Mr. Urey Woodson, National Committeeman from Kentucky and W. J. Bryan's friend and adviser, says: "W. R. Hearst told me with his own lips that he was opposed to the Kansas City platform and any movement to reaffirm it." While these two authorities disagree so plainly upon a simple question, the public is wondering what Mr. Hearst himself is thinking or believing along this line.

The National Conventions.
A rush for seats for the two great national political conventions is already announced. The Republicans will meet at Chicago on the 21st of June and the Democrats at St. Louis on the 6th of July. The Republican Convention, though of course an important event, is so reliably discounted that it is not easy to understand why there should be a general anxiety to attend it. There is no opposition to Mr. Roosevelt for the nomination for President, and the platform will be written and receive the seal of approval before the first delegate reaches the Windy City. It is not likely that the second place on the ticket will wait to be filled till the actual vote is taken. Everything will be fixed and the convention will have to stretch itself to cover the three days it is to remain in Chicago. It seems to be implied that the delegates must remain that long to spend enough money to justify the hotels, barber shops and saloons in having invited them. However, the convention will be some place to go to. These are reasonably prosperous times, and there is money to spend in travel. Then it is a great thing to go to a national convention. Nearly all men in this free and enlightened country like to rub up against politics. There are hundreds, perhaps thousands, who go to the convention cities without being able to get into the convention halls for a single session; but they doubtless feel that they are in the atmosphere, and that they have had something to do with the destinies of their country.

Suicide of Kentuckian.
UNION CITY, TENN., May 16.—C. M. Hibbs, a retired merchant of Beeler, Ky., committed suicide here last night in the Brackin Hotel by taking morphine, being found dead in his bed this morning. A gentleman here who knew Hibbs says that the act was probably caused by the fact that Hibbs had been sued for $10,000 for alienating the affections of another man's wife, and that judgment had been given against him for that amount in the Clinton (Ky.) court. The dead man left a note dispoising of his clothes, telling all goodbye and requesting that his son be given nothing of his, as he had sworn a lie on him.

Who can stand the shocking strain of laxative syringes and cathartic pills, are especially fond of Little Early Risers. All persons who find it necessary to take a liver medicine should try these easy pills, and compare the agreeable pleasant and strengthening effects with the nauseating and weakening conditions following the use of other remedies.
Little Early Risers cure biliousness, constipation, sick headache, jaundice, malaria and liver troubles. Sold by J. H. Williams.
Tennessee Fair Building May Not be Opened.
NASHVILLE, TENN., May 16.—The Tennessee World's Fair Commission, of which Maj. E. B. Stahlman, of Nashville, is the active head, is very much worked up over the failure of the people of the State to subscribe the money to erect and open the Hermitage (or State) building at the World's Fair. The commission started out to raise $30,000, but so far have not secured

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Incidents and Items of Interest at the National Capital—Some Political Pointers.

[Special to THE HERALD.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 14.—It is the opinion of a great many people in this world who have been close observers of human nature, that the one thing in a newspaper that interests people more than anything else is something about live people. Upon the theory, then, that "the proper study of mankind is man," I will during the summer give to the readers of THE HERALD a number of sketches of some of the bright young Democrats who came to the front in the Fifty-eighth Congress, and who deserve more than passing notice in Democratic correspondence. In this connection I may mention that one of the brightest young Democrats who developed in the Fifty-eighth Congress, and attracted the favorable attention of the old-timers, is "Bob" Lamar, as he is called by his many friends here, of the 16th Missouri District, the tall sycamore of southern Missouri. The Hon. "Bob" reminds us of pictures of Abraham Lincoln in his youth, and he possesses many of the mental characteristics of Lincoln, notably the old-fashioned, hard common sense, so rare now-a-days in most public men. Lamar is a hard student and an indefatigable worker. He has, during this session, secured the passage of two important and much needed laws of a general character, and of immediate benefit to his district, and also several bills of a private character. He is a forcible and eloquent speaker, and his speeches in the house always command an audience. Last January he delivered a speech in the House on the tariff and the farmer, that brought forth most favorable comment from his colleagues and doubtless will be widely distributed as one of the campaign documents during the summer and fall. Mr. Lamar is always in his seat and attentive to his duties, and if his district fails to get its rights "Bob" Lamar will be found on the firing line asking why. The people of his district will compliment their own intelligence by keeping him here where he will grow to be one of the strong men of the House.

The political gossip here at the National Capital have been busy the past few days in discussing the broadside of the Hon. William Jennings Bryan aimed at Judge Alton B. Parker in his capacity as Democratic candidate for the Presidential nomination. There are divergent views expressed as to the influence of the words about Judge Parker which emanated from Mr. Bryan in his letter to the Indianapolis Freeman in the echoes that well up from Wall Street, entrenched in which are all the buccanniers of the commercial main—the predatory rich, who are leagued with the Republican party and who have converted the Federal Government into a bureau which issues letters of marque under which they prey upon the people.
I learn from the Eastern Press Bureau of the St. Louis World's Fair that there need be no alarm about hotel accommodations at St. Louis during any part of the Exposition. A large number of the hotels in the course of construction have practically been completed and the remainder will be finished at an early date. The proprietors of the various first-class hotels have made the statement that rates would absolutely not be advanced during the Fair and that the rates are lower than those set by other large cities.
There is one important fact in connection with the session of Congress just closed that cannot be overlooked, and that is the bearing of the Democratic minority of the House. Thanks to the untiring industry, the parliamentary skill, the brilliancy of intellect and the honest zeal of their leader, the Hon. John Sharp Williams, the Democrats of the House, for the first time in a number of years, rose to the height of the political situation. But with all his energy the leader could have accomplished little or nothing toward maintaining the strength of the opposition, had he not made an army out of a mob and thus been most heartily seconded by his party associates in the conflict with the majority. As one of the results of this harmonious action, the Democrats are inspired with fresh vigor and confidence on the threshold of the new struggle with the party of tariff spoliation, class rule and paternalism in government.
In a session brought to a premature close, with many important measures unconsidered, the net result of general legislation is null save in the passage of the regular appropriation bills, and those are swollen beyond all precedent of Republican extravagance. In the abandonment of public duty, even the legislation for the Panama Canal is left to the arbitrary will and pleasure of the President.
For the barrenness of the session, the Democratic minority of the House bears no responsibility. On the contrary, it is chiefly due to their vigilance under the inspiration of their able leader that the Republican majority in Congress was kept at bay and the session was not allowed to close on a record of inaction and inactivity. Some have passed the House and some the Senate, to hang up till the short session of Congress, when the Republican majority Peculiar Death.

BUCYRUS, OHIO, May 16.—A frightful and peculiar accident took place at the house of J. T. Latz, south of this city, to-day. Mrs. Latz went to the barn to bring in some chickens from a sitting hen. The nest was in a piano box which sat parallel to the manger. She got into the box by raising the lid, but her weight overbalanced the box and it fell. The woman evidently felt the box going over and in order to see what the trouble was, she thrust her head out of a hole at the top, just in time to have her head caught between the edge of the hole and the railing of the manger, close to which the box fell. The hole in the box was not large enough to allow the woman to get her hands out to extricate herself and she was slowly strangled to death.
Her son found the dead body a few hours later.
Sudden Death.
There seems to be some mystery attaching to the death of Pat McBrady at Whitesville. The Owensboro Messenger says:
Half a gallon of whisky was expressed from Owensboro to Whitesville to Patrick McBrady, on Thursday night. To-day he lies a corpse at the home of his uncle, Mr. P. H. Haffy.
The friends of the dead man say that he inebriated rather freely of the liquor on Thursday night. It was about 10 o'clock at night that two of his friends assisted him to his home. When the doorway was reached McBrady suddenly sank down. The friends raised him up again, but life was extinct. His death had been almost instantaneous.
McBrady had a host of friends at Whitesville. It is alleged that he had been drinking rather heavily of late. He was a native of Ireland, having been born there thirty-eight years ago. He was thirteen years of age when he went to Whitesville to reside with his uncle, P. H. Haffy. He is survived by two brothers and three sisters.

will be relieved in large degree of the dread of public opinion. Such but partially describes the condition in which the two parties enter the Presidential campaign. From a mere party point of view, the Democrats surely have no cause to complain of the situation presented by the Republican majority at the close of the session of Congress.

ROCKPORT.
[Special to THE HERALD.]
May 16.—News was received here Tuesday of the death of Mrs. Mallie Smith at Berier. She had been ill for several months of consumption and her death was not unexpected. She was the wife of the late Rev. R. E. Smith, who was a prominent Baptist minister. The remains were shipped here Wednesday. Rev. Fred Jones, of Drakesboro, preached the funeral and paid a glowing tribute to the deceased, who was a most estimable woman. She was a member of the Rockport Baptist church and is survived by five children and many relatives, who will sadly miss her.

Mr. Paul Landrum, a young man of Rockport, had an experience Tuesday that he will remember for some time. He was out hunting in Mublenberg county when he heard a hissing sound nearby and turned to confront a huge copperhead snake. Not wishing to hurt the snake's feelings in any way, young Landrum turned to go in another direction, but his troubles had just begun, for on every side there were snakes and he was completely cut off from all escape by the hissing reptiles. Mr. Landrum tried every way possible to escape but without avail, and finally, seeing there was no other way, he began firing at the reptiles and they fled in every direction, but not until he had killed four of them. Thinking that such a story as he would be compelled to tell would cause some doubt, he procured a string and tied the snakes together and brought them to town with him. Several of our oldest citizens say that the snakes are the largest of the kind they ever saw.

Messrs. Harrell Brothers, of this place, have installed in their store a new soda fountain, which makes their store the most up-to-date place in town.
The Christian church at Wysox will be dedicated the fifth Sunday, May 29. The church was only recently built and is quite pretty. A basket dinner will be served and it is safe to say that a fine sermon will be delivered.
